Mrs. Joe Froehmler was up from Canyon Diablo the first of the week, shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mondragon are now clerking in the J. Herman store. They are from Cottonwood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lindblom spent the week-end at Lake Mary as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wilson.

G. W. Bell is here from Louisiana, installing a new track-laying machine for the Flagstaff Lumber Co.

Mrs. Gene Campbell has sold her home, at Elm avenue and San Francisco street, to Wm. de Ryder.

Fred Johnson and J. C. Kelly came in from Flagstaff Lumber Co. camp No. 1, stopping at the Pine over the week-end.

Craig Pottinger, editor and publisher of the Northern Arizona Leader, of Flagstaff, was a visitor in Phoenix the first of the week.

George Reed, the tall, lean-complected Echo Park fulminator of soil seeds, was in Flagstaff on Tuesday, helping the day go by.

Ed. Haymes, Indian teacher at Tolchaco, arrived a few days ago, and is staying at the Pine hotel undergoing treatment for erysipelas.

James Franklin, a member of the state land office at Phoenix, who has been spending a few weeks here, left Monday for his home.

There's no better time of year for having your house painted than right now. I'd like to talk it over with you.—W. H. Morse, Flagstaff.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Phillips and family came up from Phoenix last week and are taking in the various scenic attractions in this section.

Mrs. Kathryn Leighton, of Los Angeles, who had been here for a couple of weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Cress, returned home Saturday.

John B. Lowry, who has been connected with the Falder Pool and refreshment parlors for some time, is now clerking at Brown's newsstand.

Bro. Steele, farmer out on Dead Man's Flat, was in town the other day, and insists that while he is not a hard guy, he has the name of one.

Chester Mills, M. A. Mills, Miss Charlotte Mills, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mills, and Roger Morse went to Williams and back last Sunday.

"Bud" Bader gave up his work at the Bader delicatessen on Monday, going out to their Fort Valley ranch to attend to the harvesting and fall plowing.

When you are ready for your paper hanging and wall tinting, just drop me a line at P. O. Box 1345, Flagstaff. Satisfaction guaranteed.—W. H. Morse.

H. L. Fredericks, the ranch and cattle man, and D. E. Collins, the ranch, horse, and drift-fence man, were up from Verde on business for a day or two this week.

Carter Harrison, Jr., former mayor of Chicago, and Marshall Field, Jr., the Chicago merchant prince, were among those attending the snake dance last week.

Frank Marks, son of E. A. Marks, superintendent of the Indian school at Oraibi, who had been here clerking in the J. Herman store, has gone back to the reservation.

Lou Charlebois and family and Miss Mary Prochnow went to Oak Creek Sunday. Lou came right back and will return the latter part of this week for the others.

It was lucky that Mr. and Mrs. John Zalaha were at home last Friday morning, for the nicest little baby girl you ever saw was left there at that time. They were awfully glad.

Harry Gray and all his shade of grays have returned from their wanderings over across the Colorado river in California last week, where they spent their vacation, and are now at home on their ranch south of Bellemont resting up. Harry was in Flagstaff Saturday "cub-stoning" with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Connor motored to Williams Sunday afternoon for a short visit with Mrs. Connor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Juhl.

D. M. Gillan, manager of the Dunn Mercantile branch agency at Phoenix, was in Flagstaff Wednesday in his annual roundup trip of business interests.

Business men, sign up! Good, attractive, readable signs will add to your trade. I'm a sign painter, and every dollar you spend with me will bring you many more.—W. H. Morse, Flagstaff.

W. L. Morrison and wife left this week, by way of Montezuma's Castle and Elephant Butte dam, for their home in Phoenix. Mr. Morrison had been working at the Flagstaff Garage this summer.

William Sissons stopped over in Flagstaff a couple of days last week to see his old friends. He is on his way east where he expects to remain indefinitely, but has not yet given up calling Flagstaff "home."

Mrs. G. W. Mason, who has been attending the office for J. C. Kelly, will go with Mrs. R. B. Corbett on the first for a week at the Grand Canyon, and upon her return will take a position at the central telephone office.

F. S. Osborn and wife and child dropped into town Monday, spending the day here. He is manager of the Western Union office, at Prescott and learned part of his work at this office several years ago.

Father Connolly, formerly "Bishop of Winslow," now of Tucson, was the guest of Father Vabre a couple of days the first of the week. He was on his way home from a visit to his old home in Jacksonville, Ill.

Babbitt Bros. Garage has just received another carload of Fordson tractors and has already sold four of them, two to Williams farmers, one to Frank Pendergrass, of Doney Park, and another to Jack Morrow, of Cliffs.

Mrs. Harvey, grandmother of the late Ray Eddy, who had been staying at the Hodson ranch at Walnut Canyon, was brought to the Milton Hospital Monday. She had been suffering for several days with very severe chills.

Wilbur Roberts, formerly manager of Babbitt Bros. trading post at Red Lake, is now in charge of their post at Antelope Springs. He and his wife, both young college graduates, are thoroughly in love with reservation life.

B. L. Hilburn took Raymond Prochnow, Walter Carlson, Joe Hanley and Elmer Jackson to Williams Sunday, where Carlson pitched for the Williams team in the game against Seligman, Hanley umpiring. "Williams won the game—score, 8 to 7."

B. L. Hilburn, secretary of the Royal Duke Refining Co., went to Texas Sunday night, and will return this week, bringing Mrs. Hilburn with him. They will probably occupy the new home which Mr. Hilburn bought last week from Gerald T. Wall.

Joe Waldhaus has temporary quarters for his garage and machine shop in one of F. E. Brooks' buildings on West Railroad avenue. The old Waldhaus garage has been torn down and work on the new concrete garage, to be built on the same site, will begin this week.

Herman G. Ehlers leaves with Mrs. Ehlers the first of next week for Chloride, where he will have charge of the Arizona Central branch bank. They will both be very much missed in social and church circles here. They have been here about six years, it being about that long since Mr. Ehlers joined the Arizona Central Bank staff. He has taken a very active part in the Federated Church and was its treasurer for some time.

James Murphy, a conductor on the Southern Pacific, accompanied by his wife and little son Jimmy, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Murphy at the Greenlaw logging camp near Cliffs this past week. Mrs. J. Murphy is a sister of Mrs. P. J. Murphy, while the male Murphys only enjoy the same name and the usual prerogatives which go with that nationality; otherwise they are only related as are the Shamrocks. Mr. and Mrs. J. Murphy returned the first of the week to their home in Tucson.

A. J. Curtis motored to Winslow Wednesday.

Dr. William Lenta and family, of Phoenix, are spending a few weeks in this city.

Dr. Tom Manning went to Phoenix the first of the week on business, intending to get back this week if possible.

Have your eyes examined by Dr. Baker at Hotel Weatherford, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, September 7, 8, and 9.

Ocie Starnes and wife are recent arrivals from Phoenix. He is working at Riordan for the McGonigle Lumber Co.

W. M. McClurken, general agent for the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co., is back from several weeks' trip to Winslow and Holbrook.

Herman Kahl has been in Phoenix and Tucson this week attending a meeting of the state board of pharmacy of which he is a member.

J. S. Bozeman, a former resident of Flagstaff, has been visiting his old friends here this week from California, and looking after his property.

W. J. Stephenson, the old hammer-and-nails expert, returned the first of the week from Seligman, where he has been doing carpenter work for the Al Sanford cattle outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Johnson and son, Clarence Hoolihan, of Phoenix, are in Flagstaff for a few weeks. Clarence recently returned from France, where he spent about a year as a doughboy.

T. E. Pollock came in Wednesday morning at about 2:30 a. m. from Holbrook, and felt mighty lucky in getting home then after a couple of days' delay from his trip over his Apache railroad to Cooley.

County Supervisor Fred Garing, who has been seriously ill for nearly three weeks, is somewhat better. It is thought that his illness was partly due to overwork, a habit he is said to be very much addicted to.

Mr. Bissonette, of the Reliable Spring and Auto Co., is building new Ford trucks for Will Dickinson, of Apache Maid, former sheriff of this county; Fred Russell, one of our progressive farmers, and the Forest Reserve.

Mrs. Bob Cree and son Allan left Tuesday night for their home at Christmas, Ariz. Mrs. Cree attended the summer Normal school here, and since the end of the term had been visiting an old classmate, Mrs. D. S. Roome.

County Agricultural Agent Francis Chisholm, who arrived on Monday, is already hard at work among our farmers, with whom he is making a fine impression. The state farm agent, W. M. Cook, was here several days this week.

George See has been added to the night police force, to serve until the end of the month, when he takes up his work as driver of the fire truck. Jim Byrum, the regular "night force," finds the job rather too large for one man to do justice to since the epidemic of robberies began.

Mrs. L. N. Gooding and children, who have been spending the summer in Idaho, arrived in Flagstaff Monday to join Prof. Gooding. Mrs. Gooding insists that the weather in Idaho where she has been staying was not only dry, but so hot that people kept mentioning it frequently.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Finley motored to Kendrick Park Tuesday. S. L. says they saw some variety of weather that afternoon. It was raining and hailing where they were; they could see it snowing on the peaks, and when they got four miles this way on their return they found the roads dusty.

I. M. Jackson, the cattleman, was in from his headquarters ranch near Anita last week and reports that a mountain lion has been doing considerable damage out that way. Besides killing two or three yearling calves it got away with a fine colt a few days ago. He says predatory animals are worse than usual this year out in that section of the country.

"Doctor" W. W. Lewis spent eight days around town selling corn and headache "remedies," potato peelers, etc., and then, on Tuesday, Chief of Police Neill landed on him, collecting $20 for license fees and advising him that there might be more serious trouble if his right to the title of "doctor" should be questioned in court. Lewis said he didn't like this town any more and would get out of it at once.

Mrs. W. H. Pierce, wife of the well-known forest ranger, was in from Walnut Canyon Monday. She says there are forty or fifty tourists a day at the canyon, more and of a much better class than have been there during any previous summer. Mrs. Pierce had recently been entertaining her niece, Mrs. Alta L. Roberts, of Holbrook, and requests that nothing be said of her getting her car stuck in the mud while bringing Mrs. Roberts in to catch the train.

Edwin G. Baker, of Indianapolis, known as "Cannon-ball" Baker, passed through here Wednesday on his way to Los Angeles, looking over the route for his motorcycle trip, which he will begin early next month, in an attempt to break the coast-to-coast motorcycle record, made by the late A. G. Bedell, of New Hampshire, of 7 days, 16 hours and 16 minutes. On his dash eastward Baker will stop here for a short nap. He will go through Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Las Vegas, Dodge City, Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Columbus, Wheeling, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia to New York.

Miss Mary Duffy, of Nogales, a daughter of Judge Duffy, who has been the guest of friends in Flagstaff for a few days, returned to her home the first of the week. Miss Duffy is a graduate of the Northern Arizona Normal school, an institution which her father helped to save from being abolished several years ago while he was a member of the House in the last territorial legislature. Judge Duffy has lived to be very much pleased with his good judgment, but there are but a few people up here who realize how much he did for them regardless of the political pressure brought to bear on him.

H. D. Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Roome and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis were among recent visitors to the Grand Canyon.

Miss Mary Duffy, daughter of Superior Court Judge Frank J. Duffy, of Nogales, who had been here visiting Mrs. M. A. Murphy, has returned home.

John O'Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Farrell, has been honorably discharged from the navy, and is home again after an absence of two years. He was a locomotive engineer for the Arizona Lumber & Timber Co. before he enlisted.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. Davis of the Confection Den, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Switzer, and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beeston of California, who are here visiting, and Ira Dougherty, all went to Grand Canyon Saturday afternoon, returning Sunday.

Leo Crane, for several years agent of the Hopi Indian reservation, is to be transferred, probably the first of next month, and his successor is R. L. Daniels, who has made an enviable record as superintendent of the Pawnee Indian reservation school at Pawnee, Okla.

About sixty people went from here to the snake dance. Most of them went by way of Winslow, and found the washes so soft and the banks so hard to negotiate that getting stuck was quite the style. It was a case of mutual push and pull between the different cars to get all of them through.

Billy Hostetter, who recently returned from France, where he had been called by the peevishness of the Kaiser, was in Flagstaff from his "little ole homestead" at Parks Saturday. He has been making himself busy with his bunch of horses and cattle and soon expects to bring his crop over the top.

Among those from Flagstaff who helped swell the crowds at Lake Mary Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Will Marlar, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hash, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Heisser, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clark, Mrs. H. H. McNeil, Miss Carrie McNeil.

Mrs. Laura Renbarger and her daughter, Miss Alma Renbarger, of Topeka, Kan., arrived here Sunday to visit Mrs. Renbarger's brother, Jack Wilson and his family, and on Monday morning another daughter of Mrs. Renbarger, Mrs. Ethel Hicks, and the latter's son, Jack, also of Topeka, arrived to make the family reunion more complete.

Mrs. Fred Croxon returned the first of the week from San Francisco, where she has been with her father, James Lamport, for several weeks. Mr. Lamport hasn't been in the best of health for some time and was in hopes that the change of climate and treatment on the coast would prove beneficial. Mrs. Croxon says he was improving when she left him.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Morse, of Kemp, Texas, arrived here the first of the week to visit their son, V. A. Moore, who is connected with the Northern Arizona Motor Co., and Mr. Moore will look into business conditions here with plans to make Flagstaff a summer home during future years. Mr. Moore has extensive cattle and other business interests in Texas.

Will Marlar is back from his vacation, which he spent in the White Mountains, in company with Oscar Bondesson, of Yuma, who has been here for some little time visiting his daughter, Miss Loretta Bondesson, a Normal school student. Will says you can catch trout in the streams there without bait. "All you have to do is to throw your hook in," he said.

Chas. Hawley, the balloon ascensionist, had a lot of bad luck Saturday and Sunday. In descending in his parachute at Williams Saturday he bumped against a building, spraining his ankle. Then, Sunday, on his way back here two tires blew up. Some of our people going to Williams fixed him up, only to find him, when they were returning, in the ditch with a broken axle.

G. C. Becker, partner with G. G. Stevenson in the new Western Mercantile Co., leaves Sunday for Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, where he will buy toys and novelties for the Christmas trade and for general stock. He will then go on to Toledo for a short visit with his home people. The firm's hardware and stove stock will be complete in a couple of weeks, and many of the toys are already coming in.

Helen M. Stark, of Williams, former manager of the lath factory for the Saginaw & Manistee Lumber Co., was here the first of the week seeking to interest capital in a rotary wheel harrow he has recently patented. The harrow is supported by two wheels, about the size of seeder wheels, and a third toothed wheel rests on the ground between them. This third wheel rotates as the machine moves over the ground.

Rev. Clyde Metcalf, formerly a resident of this city, now of Highland Park, Los Angeles, arrived in Flagstaff on Wednesday morning on a freight train from Winslow, and is the guest of Tom L. Rees, where he expects to remain until railroad conditions are better. Rev. Metcalf has been east on a visit to his old home at Auburn, Neb., and No. 9, the train he was coming home on was stopped by the strike at Winslow; he heard that a freight was coming through and thus succeeded in getting to this city.

James Gallagher is home again after a year's wandering around over in France with a railroad division. He enlisted at Ely, Nevada, and was recently discharged at Fort D. A. Russell in Wyoming. He came home on the George Washington with President Wilson and heard him make his famous speech on board ship in which he said the men had a right to be proud of their officers, but he couldn't say as much for the officers. Jimmy says there was "standing room only" on board the ship for the men, and they lay four days in port before leaving, and the men were treated to beans for breakfast every morning.

James Treagle, the heavy-weight cattle buyer of Prescott, is in this city interviewing cattlemen on the quantity of cattle.

J. A. Dean, representing the Wilson Royalty Syndicate, of DeLeon, Tex., has been here for several days to interest investors in oil stock and leases.

Alex. Johnston, city clerk, wires that he won't be back until the strike is settled. Looks like Alex was going to take the train for it this time instead of driving back with his car.

C. A. Fernald has been given charge of the shop work at the Flagstaff Garage by the owner, J. B. Gunter. Mr. Fernald is an auto and electrical expert, of California, who has been in the business for the last twenty years.

H. D. Tillman went to Phoenix last night in company with Mr. Arnold of Phoenix, state distributor of Reo motor cars, and will return today or tomorrow driving a new Reo truck. The Tillman boys expect to get a lot of Reo cars by the middle of next month.

Harry Gray, of Bellemont, is in town, gum-shoeing 'round, trying to find out when he can ship those nice lambs of his. He won't take his family to Phoenix until the middle of next month, somewhat later than the time they usually select for going into winter quarters.

L. R. Borden, formerly manager of the hardware department for Babbitt Bros., at Kingman, and more recently at Oatman, is now clerking in Babbitt's hardware department here. Mrs. Borden, who is with her parents at Kingman, will join her husband as soon as he finds a house.

The new flour mill owned by J. P. Wilson and J. C. Kester is completed, as far as the building is concerned, and a millwright is expected from Owensboro, Ky., within the next few days to assist in the installation of the machinery. There is every indication that the mill will be ready for business well in advance of the coming threshing season.

Joe Waldhaus and Jack Mains went to Phoenix the other day, bringing back two new Oldsmobile cars. Joe sold an Oakland six to B. L. Hilburn, secretary of the Royal Duke Refining Co., and an Overland to M. T. Piper.

Gilbert Sykes, cousin of Harold Sykes, the tire surgeon, arrived here Monday for a short visit. Gilbert used to live here, but his present home is in Tucson. For the last seven years he has been in England. He was going to school there at the outbreak of the war, during which he operated a wireless on one of the British naval vessels.

E. Lennon, manager of the furniture department at Babbitt's, bought an old Hopi drum at the reservation last week. It is a genuine antique, the cylinder made of cottonwood, and has a fine deep tone. The only other Hopi drum known to be in existence is owned by John Verkamp.

Miss Grace Sparks, secretary of the Prescott Chamber of Commerce; Miss Jane Rider, of Tucson, and Nicholas Barrett, a business man of Prescott, stopped at the Commercial Hotel on Wednesday night, after several days of sightseeing following the snake dance, and left Thursday for Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Franklin Matthews, after two weeks visit with her father, S. B. Gilliland, and her son, John Matthews, will leave for her home in Colfax county, New Mexico tomorrow. Mrs. Matthews' seen wonderful improvement in Flagstaff since her last visit some six years ago, but she never hesitates to say a good word for New Mexico.

Our police force has been scouring the city with a fine-tooth comb during the last few days, trying to get a line on the house thieves, but have had no success so far. Chief Neill picked up three navvies Wednesday—one a deserter from the flagship Birmingham, and two suspected of being deserters from the battleship New Mexico. They had gotten this far east from Los Angeles. The man from the Birmingham had two years to serve. He was turned over to W. A. Duncan, the local naval recruiting officer, who sent him back. The other two were allowed to go.
